Proteome-based comparison of proteasome inhibitor-resistant and -sensitive acute lymphoblastic leukemia cells. Acute lymphoblastic leukemia (ALL) cells are characterized by abnormalities in the maturation and proliferation of leukemic cells. ALL cells are particularly sensitive to apoptosis when exposed to proteasome inhibitors, which inhibit the degradation of many proteins required for cell survival. Here, we used a high-resolution two-dimensional gel electrophoresis approach to characterize the differentially expressed proteins between ALL cells, which were resistant and sensitive to the proteasome inhibitor bortezomib, in order to delineate the mechanisms underlying resistance to proteasome inhibitors. The resistant leukemia cells contained higher levels of cyclin D1, NADPH, and ATP synthase, and lower levels of the anti-apoptotic protein Bcl-2. The sensitive leukemia cells were characterized by increased levels of heat shock protein 90, HSP70 and HSP90, HSP70-interacting protein (HIP), and NADPH. We just can't help ourselves. Buy-to-rent scheme to help the most vulnerable pay more for their own properties Under a new scheme that was announced today, all properties purchased by tenants in social housing will be exempt from the 50% stamp duty usually charged on properties bought for the private market. Every year, the Scottish Government spends over £50 million on stamp duty for properties purchased for social housing. Housing Minister Andrew Stunell said the scheme is part of a wider package of measures to address affordability issues in Scotland. The scheme will come into effect on 13 October, and will be open to both social and private property. This means that tenants, even if they have a mortgage, will be able to pay less. Current stamp duty levels remain in place for those who wish to purchase homes for themselves or their family, but the amount payable will be reduced if the property is a buy-to-rent property. As a consequence of the changes, tenants who are not first-time buyers will have a better chance of saving money on their next home purchase. Andrew Stunell, Minister for Local Government and Housing, said: “I want to help those who are struggling to keep up with the rising cost of living in Scotland, and this new stamp duty scheme is one way of achieving that. “Our research shows that households reliant on low-cost council housing are three times more likely to be in financial hardship than those in the private rented sector. It is a fair and equitable way of addressing this problem, because it allows tenants in council housing to benefit from the same deals that privately-owned households get.” The Scottish Government is currently consulting on affordability issues, and also on the introduction of a bonus stamp duty regime for private social housing. This would be worth up to an extra £175 on most residential properties. TEWKSBURY,

Mass. — “No one is indispensable” are the words that Wilbur Shaw, then in his 20s and a soloist at the Boston Symphony Orchestra, invoked the night before he died. And he meant it. Shaw was preparing for his opening performance at Carnegie Hall as a member of the Boston Symphony Orchestra in 1942. His spirits were buoyed by the promise of such a stellar performance before his hometown orchestra. When he told his wife, Ethel, he was feeling bad, she would not let him cancel the show. But after a light meal that day, Shaw felt so ill that he
